

Spectrum Annual Conference 2022

Navigating Diagnostic and Treatment Challenges: Is it Borderline Personality Disorder and/or Complex Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder?

In-person & Online

SPECTRUM ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Clinicians can face complex diagnostic and treatment challenges when people present with features of both borderline personality disorder (BPD) and post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD). A degree of clarity has been achieved since Complex PTSD was formally included in ICD-11 but diagnostic difficulties and treatment challenges persist.

Over the course of this conference, experts from the fields of BPD and complex trauma — separated for too long — will guide clinicians towards diagnostic clarity while informing treatment and research directions.
